WEDDINGS

Tousignant — Heffernan

St. Mary's Church, Beiseker, was the scene of a pretty wedding on October 10th when Eileen May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heffernan of Grainger, became the bride of Alphonse Thomas, only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Tousignant of Grande Prairie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Tennant, followed by nuptial mass.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white satin with full length veil in halo style caught with a spray of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of talisman roses. She was attended by Mrs. Gerald Heffernan as matron of honor, gowned in pink net and Miss Therese Tousignant in blue net, as bridesmaid while Miss Marie Lavoie in gold net was the flower girl.

The groom was supported by Gerald Heffernan and Martin Heffernan. The ushers were J. S. Heffernan and B. Charlebois. The wedding music was very ably rendered by Miss Helen Lavoie of Bircham.

The reception was held at the home of the bride followed by a wedding dance in the Beiseker Community Hall.

After a honeymoon spent in Calgary and Banff the young couple will reside in Grande Prairie.

Carbon Stores Will Remain Open

At a meeting of the businessmen last Friday it was decided not to change the hours of business in Carbon as was planned at a meeting held a few weeks ago.

At the first meeting it was understood that stores in the neighboring towns had voted to close at 6 p.m. on Saturday's in order to comply with recent regulations. However, other towns have now decided to remain open and Carbon will also keep the same hour as always.

At the same meeting the businessmen expressed their desire to have the village council retain the services of the night watchman and this will no doubt be done.

SNORING

Snoring and breathing thru the mouth are serious matters not always given the special attention they deserve. For instance, doctors know mouth breathing, in children, can lead to pronounced change in actual facial structure.

Snoring indicates failure of the nasal passages to perform their proper functions and is common among those suffering from some form of blockage of the nose.

Medical advice should be sought for the chronic mouth-breather and where there is a tendency, particularly in cold weather, for a child to develop nasal colds with persistent discharge, the family physician should be consulted at once.

Help the printer build his house. Renew that subscription today. $2 per year, $5 for three years.

★ The Junior Ladies' Aid will sell waffles, pie and coffee at the Scout Hall on Saturday, Nov. 2 commencing at 3 p.m. Everybody welcome. Come and enjoy waffles for a change.

I Am Inflation

By EDNA JAKUES

I am Inflation.

Thousands of people never recognize me. True, I have an ugly mug, but I disguise it in a thousand different forms of camouflage. Here is my favorite one, it always goes over big with the men.

More money to spend.

I chuckle every time I pull that one, it's old as the hills. I've been using it for hundreds of years. Every time there's a war I pull it out of the bag, and it works every time. The catch in it is that in war there are fewer civilian goods on the market and people are willing to pay more to get what they want.

From then on it's in the bag. Prices start to rise, everything from a dozen eggs to the price of a winter overcoat gets an upward slant and starts climbing. Butter, eggs, cola, rent, services.

The cost of living keeps on rising like the tides of the sea. By the time it doubles, everyone is feeling the pinch. The snowball is rolling and nothing short of calamity can stop it.

Remember after the last war when Canada's cost of living went to 192 percent in July 1920. I had the time of my life!

In this war I'm not having such a good time, people are getting wise to me. For instance, in World War One, farmers chuckled when they got over $2.00 for the wheat and big prices for their butter and eggs.

They never seemed to get it into their heads that because of the high prices for farm stuff, the town folks had to get more for their goods in order to balance the thing.

In 1920 farmers were paying $8 to $12 for boots, $60 to $100 for a suit of clothes, $7 and over for a bag of flour and so on. They just never linked the two up, that their real 'take home' pay was less than it had been under lower farm prices.

Mother's butter and egg money (while it was good) just seemed to vanish entirely when Mary Jane's new coat cost $14 instead of $5 like her last one, and the price of Johnny's clothes were almost prohibitive as far as butter and egg money went. The only way mother could balance the books at all was by going without anything new herself, so in the long run, everyone was harder up, no matter where they lived.

Since this war, plenty of people are working for all they're worth to run inflation up, but folks are scared of me. I'm the two-headed monster that broke the country after the last war when the bubble burst and de-flation set in.

They'll never forget that I'm the two-headed monster that sent nearly ten thousand decent hard working business men to the wall. I closed factories and shops from Halifax to Vancouver. I made hoboes out of nice boys, while girls with university degrees were working as maids, anything to keep a roof over their heads.

Farms are the 'basic' industry of Canada. If eggs go to 90 cents a dozen, like they did in 1920, the fellow who buys them in the city naturally has to have more wages. If butter hits 90 cents a pound, like it is right now across the border, the little woman has to ask friend husband for more household allowance and he goes to the boss, and there you are, a notch at a time, like cogs in a wheel that go round and round and always have to come back to the starting point, the root of inflation.

Take a man working in a factory. Being human he wants more money in his jeans at the end of the week, so he hits up the boss for more, that's his contribution to inflation.

His pal in the next town hears about it. He works in a store and thinks he should be getting more, so he goes to his boss. That's his contribution to inflation.

The boss sees his company headed into the red, so he hits the consumer for more and he's added his two cents worth to the spiral, building up now like the Tower of Babel, confusion, strikes, walk-outs, sit downs, pickets and unemployment.

An old weather-beaten farmer who had lived through four wars said it 'ain't the money we git that counts so much, it's what it will buy in return. A dollar ain't worth a cuss unless it will buy an honest dollar's worth of goods, that's the real measure of a dollar, son, the real measure."

And I agree with the old man. Sometimes I wish my name was not Inflation . . . it has such a mean sound.

HAY!

The old-timer from the foothills had come to town to meet an old friend from Ontario who had come out for a visit. When they had driven out into the hay country the easterner was amazed at the number of hay stacks.

"What do you do with all this hay?" he asked.

"Oh, we feed some of it here and we dispose of the rest."

"But how do you dispose of it? Do you bale it and ship it?"

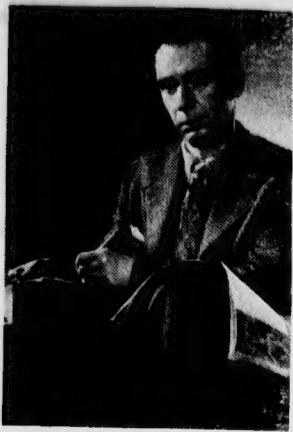

"No," the old-timer said, "that would be a pretty expensive proposition. No, we dispose of it to folks in town and farmers round about who don't grow much hay. Some of them feed cattle through the winter."

"And what is it worth? Do you get a fair price for it, and do they pay cash?"

"Oh, sometimes we get a fair price. Cash? No, we don't get cash for it; we sell it on credit."

The Ontario man could hardly believe it. "Great Scott," he said, "if we ran our business that way in Ontario we'd all be broke. Don't you lose an awful lot of money?"

The old-timer scratched his head. "No-o, no, we don't lose any money but we do lose a hell of a lot of hay."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

The Quality of the Barley Crop

"The Crop Testing Plan" has just compiled the returns from the analyses of the barley samples which were collected at country elevators this past year and from farmers only who were trying definitely to produce malting barley. Feed barleys were not included in the test. The returns show that 58 percent classified as A which means that the crops represented by these samples were pure enough to be used for seed. Nineteen percent classified as B which means they contained some admixtures and 23 percent classified as C and mixtures of varieties which means that they were quite bad and unsuitable for seed. These results are an improvement over previous years. In 1945 25 percent were mixtures and in 1944 34 percent were mixtures. The A classification in 1946 was higher than ever before.

We have just received a return from similar Crop Testing Plan work on barley done in England last year, which reveals that 30 percent of the crops tested there consisted of mixtures. This indicates that while our malting barley in Canada is truer to variety than it is in England, yet there is still considerable room for improvement in Canada, hence for the use of better seed, preferably registered or certified.

Wage Agreement Brings Coal Boost

Following approval by the National War Labor Board of the new wage agreement between the UMWA and mine operators, the Prices Board has approved increases in the price of coal produced in Alberta and British Columbia mines.

The general average increase at the mine will be $1.00 per ton except on Vancouver Island where it will be $1.50 per ton. When applied to the various sizes of coal sold to the consumer these general increases will be as follows: Lump coal $1.00 to $1.40; egg $1.00 to $1.50; nut 50c to 80c; stoker 60c to $1.50. The increased cost to railways and industrial users of western bituminous coal will amount to 85c a ton.

Board officials explained that when negotiations were commenced it was realized by all parties that because of the known financial position of the operators it would be necessary to compensate them for any increase in costs. Accordingly this increase is designed to cover the increases in cost arising out of the increased wage rates, the establishment of a welfare fund, a change in the holiday pay provisions and the reduction of the work week from 48 to 40 hours.

In establishing the new price the Board has also taken into consideration certain higher prices paid for some period of time by the mine operators for materials used in coal production. These have in no case exceeded ten cents per ton.

Aprons For Duty

Many Woman's Clubs are already busy making aprons for bazaars and Christmas sale but to produce the best buys possible it should be remembered that every apron has a job to do. It must be practical as well as pretty.

Mrs. Macdonald, supervisor of the home economics division offers this six point test for a kitchen apron:

1. Will shoulder straps "stay put?" Anchor straps firmly in back, well above the waistline. Let them join into a single strip after passing over the shoulders, or choose a pattern that holds them secure with a waist piece in back.

2. Is the apron free from "safety hazards?" Choose a plain flat trim. No dangling bows where they will catch on articles about the kitchen; no fluffy front ruffles to catch on fire bending over the stove.

3. Is it easy to get into? Use no more fastenings than needed to prevent gapping—a pinafore with one button at the back of the neck and a tie at the waist is preferable to the usual row of back buttons.

4. Are pockets ample and conveniently placed? Pockets should be large enough for the closed hand. Pockets close to the front should slant toward the back.

5. Will the apron wash well and iron easily? Choose colorfast material and a sturdy trim that will last as long as the apron. All-over patterns on coored rather than white backgrounds look fresh longer and save laundry time.

6. Is workmanship neat and sturdy? Reinforce pocket corners, buttonholes and places where buttons are sewed on. Cut buttonholes with the grain of the goods and work them closely. Keep construction flat and free from thick lumpy corners.

The difference between a model woman and a woman model is that the former is a bare possibility and the other a naked fact.

Rescue Wheat

Rescue is a new variety of hard red spring wheat resistant to wheat stem sawfly attack. It was developed from the cross Apex x 8-615, and produced by the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current.

In each of the past five years Rescue has been compared with the standard varieties under severe infestations of sawfly in five different nurseries. On the average, in these tests, only 7 per cent of the stems of Rescue were cut by sawfly, whereas 72 per cent of those of Apex were cut.

In tests conducted in the sawfly area of Western Canada (the brown and dark soils of Saskatchewan and Alberta) Rescue has given the following results. Under severe sawfly infestations it has yielded more than any of the standard varieties. Furthermore, in the absence of sawfly damage, Rescue has yielded more than Apex and Marquis and only slightly less than Thatcher. Outside of the sawfly area Rescue has, however, performed poorly, yielding less than the standard varieties and being much weaker in the straw.

In maturity Rescue is intermediate between Thatcher and Marquis. It is resistant to stem rust but susceptible to leaf rust and covered smut (bunt) and moderately susceptible to root rot.

The most serious defect of Rescue is that it is not equal to Marquis in baking quality. For this reason it will not be graded higher than No. 3 Northern. Nevertheless, within the sawfly area, Rescue may be expected to eliminate, almost entirely, the heavy annual losses in yield from sawfly.

Increase fields of Rescue produced excellent yields in 1946. As a result substantial quantities of seed are now available for distribution. All applications for Rescue wheat should be made at once to the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

Time Extended To File Forms

The National Barley Contest Committee on October 25 decided to extend the time within which farmers may file their applications for judging their barley.

Each contestant has already received an application for grain judging. The form is in triplicate. The top half is to be used by contestants who ship their grain. The bottom half is to be used by contestants holding their barley on the farm for seed.

If a contestant is shipping his carload of barley, the time within which applications for judging must be completed and mailed has been extended to December 15. The old date was November 30.

If the grain is being held on the farm for seed the time within which the application forms must be mailed has been extended to November 30. The old date was November 15.

If any contestant has not received an application form, please notify the contest committee immediately and the form will be forwarded.

Please note the new dates. November 30 and December 15. Send the completed forms to the chairman of the National Barley Contest Committee, 206 Grain Exchange, Winnipeg.

A Fair Return

It is evident from early reports that the sale of the Canada Savings Bond is meeting steady response. It bears out conviction that thrift is one of the sturdiest fibres in Canadian character. As was to be expected, however, sales agencies report widely differing experiences in talking to potential customers. One question that seems to come up relates to the interest paid by the new security. "Why two and three-quarter percent?", people ask. "Why not three percent?"

It may be that these questions are prompted by some misunderstanding of the purpose of the Canada Savings Bond. The name itself provides a simple clue to this purpose. The new security is intended solely as a convenient form of personal savings and in comparison to other forms of saving, has much to recommend it. The safety provided by the backing of the nation's resources, plus the feature of immediate redemption at 100 cents on the dollar is an attractive combination in any security. Coupled with these features, the rate of two and three-quarters percent is a fair return and is not approached by other comparable forms of saving or investment available today.

Men try to convert the world to their way of thinking so they can continue undisturbed in their way of living.

Tannis Murray of CBC's Talks and public affairs department is among four Canadians invited to attend the International Assembly of Women meeting in South Kortright, N.Y.
